

OVER THE RIVER.

CAMDEN COURTS—Before Judge Woodhull, in the Camden Quarter Sessions yesterday, the case of Joseph Gallagher, John Campbell and Thomas Gallagher, who were indicted by the grand jury on the charge of atrocious assault and battery on Constable Neason of the Eighth Ward, and also on Justice Souders, while they were conveying a prisoner to the county jail, and also for attempting to rescue said prisoner, was called. But, as the counsel for the defendants could not be present, the hearing was laid over until May. John Toner, a small lad, accused of stealing a piece of rope from a boat lying at the foot of Federal street, was acquitted. The case of Justice Leatherbury, charged with misdemeanor in office, was postponed until the next term. The jurors for the present term were then discharged. The prisoners who have been convicted during the week will be sentenced this morning. With these sentences will close the business of the January term, except the trial of Sylvester F. Wilson, which has been set down for Monday next before a struck jury.

THE HUNTER CASE—In the case of Benjamin Hunter, accused of complicity in the Armstrong murder, and for whose release on bail a writ of habeas corpus was granted, Judge Woodhull yesterday examined the evidence adduced by the State on Saturday last, and cross-examined by counsel for the defense. He reserved his decision.

"MAKING A NEWSPAPER"—This is the subject of a humorous lecture by Mr. Edwin K. Hart, to be delivered this evening at Birch's Opera House, Burlington. Mr. Hart will be assisted by Mr. Frank H. Taylor, of the Graphic, who will illustrate the lecture by a series of amusing caricatures.

CAMDEN MARKETS—In the Camden markets during the past week 28 loads of hay were sold at 70 and 85 cents per hundred; 37 loads of straw at 50 and 60; 58 calves brought 6 and 7 per pound, according to quality; 15 monks, 3 and 6 cents; 38 sheep, 4 and 6; 27 lambs, 5 and 7.

BURGLARY.—The residence of Mrs. Ingham, No. 217 Vine street, Camden, was broken into and robbed of clothing and other articles amounting to about $125, a day or two since, while the family were attending a funeral in the lower part of the State.

CHARLES HENRY HULL ARRESTED—Charles Henry Hull, the wax flower artist, arrested in Trenton, N. J., has been taken to Chester, Pa., on a warrant issued by one of his many brides. His exploits in Norristown a few months ago are well remembered.

LARCENY OF CLOTHING—Justice Farrell has committed Frank Cain in default of bail to answer a charge of forcibly entering the residence of a Mr. Lee, in Stockton township, and stealing therefrom a lot of wearing apparel.

MASS MEETING.—A mass meeting has been called for this evening at the Court House, for the purpose of taking action against the passage of the Excise bill for Camden city, now pending in the Senate.
