DEATHS IN THE HOME OF MURDERERS' GUARD Son and Mother-in-law of Constable Charles Peters Expired in Camden Within a Week

Death has visited the home of Constable Charles H. Peters, 816 Chestnut street, Camden, trice within the present died from the effects of exposure resulting, from his experience while a soldier in the Philippines. Yesterday Mrs. Mary Sage, a nonogenarian and the mother-inlaw of Constable Peters, passed away. While she had been ailing, her death was hastened by that of her grandson, of whom she was very fond.

week. On Sunday his son, Harry Peters, of whom she was very fond.

A peculiar feature in connection with the deaths is that Constable Peters in one of the death watches assigned by Sherni Somers to look after Charles Gibson and Stephen Dorsey, the negroes who are awaiting electrocution for the murder of Mrs. Frances Horner.
