The Game Law.—On the 1st instant the Game law in reference to the shooting and capturing of quail, partridges and rabbits went into operation, and it is now lawful to shoot them until the 1st of January. The following section of the act incorporating the West Jersey Game Protective Society explains the conditions:—"Any person or persons, non-residents of this State, wishing to kill, destroy, hunt or take at any time any game as provided for in the seventh section of the act incorporating this society shall first become members, by payment of the membership fee ($5) to the secretary." After the 1st of January, 1870, the fee will be $2, instead of $5 per annum, to non residents of the State. The money raised by fees is appropriated toward stocking the woods and streams with game. The amount expended this year is $1200. By law every member of the society is invested with police powers and can arrest any person who violates the law.

Still Dangerous.—Yesterday Robert Todd, Jr., who was dreadfully beaten over the head with a bludgeon, on Thursday morning, was still in a dangerous condition, and it was not believed that he could recover. He was able to talk a little. In view of this it was deemed advisable to take his ante mortem statement. He testified that he recognized the colored man, Eldridge, and Constable Hann. He was in the act of turning the switch at Second street and Bridge avenue, and advised them to get out of the way, so as not to be hurt by the cars. He could not recollect anything more. Hann, Paul, Linkford and Eldridge are still in jail, awaiting the result of his injuries. The wounded man complains of great pain in and about his head.

Sunday School Convention.—The annual convention of the Camden County Sunday School Association closed its sessions last evening. Thirty schools were reported in a prosperous state, and the various workings of the association were represented to be satisfactory. The following officers were elected:—President, Rev. F. R. Hince; corresponding secretary, J. Earl Atkinson; assistant corresponding secretary, Walter M. Patton; city secretary, B. W. Merie. Several of the schools have had a handsome increase during the year.

The Revivalists.—The proposition to secure the services of the great revivalists, Moody and Sankey, for a short season in Camden, is meeting with much favor. It is thought that a formal invitation will be extended to them by the various evangelical churches during their stay in Philadelphia.

Camden Markets.—During the past week 28 loads of hay were disposed of in the Camden market, at $1.10@1.50 @ 100 lb; 35 loads of straw at 80¢ @ 100 lb. In the calf market 125 head were sold at 7¢ @ 100 lb; 140 sheep at $1.00; 20 head of lambs at 2¢ @ 100 lb, according to quality.

Held to Answer.—Times Cain, residing in South Camden, was yesterday arrested, charged, on complaint of Chas. Eckert, with a violent assault and battery upon and threatening to kill him. He was held in $500 to answer at court.
