CAMDEN'S MAYOR TAKES A BRIDE

Charles H. Ellis and Miss Hattie
Weber, of Lewistown, Pa.,
Quietly Married

Without the least show of ostentation or display, Charles H. Ellis, Mayor of Camden, and Miss Hattie B. Weber, of Lewistown, Pa., were united in marriage last night at the home of the Mayor, 915 South Fifth street. The wedding was strictly private. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Holmes F. Gravatt, pastor of the First M. E. Church, Camden. The Mayor and his bride were attended by his son and daughter, Frank M. Ellis and Miss Ella T. Ellis, and immediately after the ceremony the Chief Executive and his wife departed on a trip South. They are scheduled to return home on May 20.

The bride is a daughter of the late John and Catherine Weber and a niece of S. B. Weber, a banker and merchant at Lewistown.

Being a stickler for simplicity, the Mayor endeavored to keep his marriage plans secret, but his intentions leaked out among his associates at the municipal building, and the bride was the recipient yesterday of a chest of silver. Each of the 150 pieces was appropriately engraved, and on a silver plate on the chest was this inscription: "Hattie Weber, From City Officials of Camden, N. J., April 30, 1909."
