

SHERIFF HATCH NAMES CAMDEN'S GRAND JURY

Wilbur F. Rose, Banker, Made
Foreman of Inquest That Will
Pass Upon Court Cases

WILBUR F. ROSE

Mr. Rose, who for many years has been connected with the National State Bank in Camden, was yesterday chosen foreman of the Camden County Grand Jury.

At the opening of the December term of the Camden county courts yesterday Supreme Court Justice Garrison announced that there was nothing of sufficient importance on which to charge the grand jury, which is somewhat unusual. About the only thing to date is a mass of petty criminal business.

As summoned by Sheriff Hatch, the jury is composed of these representative men: Wilbur F. Rose, banker, Second ward; Joseph Batten, farmer, Blackwood; Thomas Bowers, retired, Clementon; George M. Chie, secretary, Fourth ward; Monroe S. Coulter, manager, Seventh ward; George S. Cadwallader, general superintendent, Eleventh ward; Samuel R. Coles, farmer, Delaware township; Howard A. Clement, merchant, Haddonfield; John W. Croft, manufacturer, Ninth ward; Charles A. Greer, superintendent, First ward; Isaiah S. Hatch, manufacturer, Pensauken; Joseph E. Haines, farmer, Centre township; William Heggan, Sr., farmer, Winslow township; Pank R. Jobs, stove dealer, Third ward; Joseph I. Morris, retired, Second ward; John M. McFeeley, general superintendent, Sixth ward; William P. Phelps, retired, Merchantville; Cornelius Schepperkotter, superintendent, Eighth ward; Charles C. Stevenson, farmer, Blackwood; William F. Thompson, towerman, Fifth ward; George W. Turner, retired, Gloucester City; Everett Van Dright, clergyman, Haddon Heights; Charles S. Wolverton, ferryman, Tenth ward; Howard T. Wright, newspaper man, Waterford township.
