

ALIENS WHO BUY BONDS PROMISED CITIZENSHIP

Camden Judge Tells Foreigners, Otherwise Qualified, to Aid Loan

Aliens whose financial condition will permit them to buy Liberty Bonds and War Stamps need not expect to be naturalized in Camden unless they have made investments in the country's war securities. Judge Kates so decreed yesterday in continuing until the next term of court several applications for citizenship. The court's attitude was backed up by James Glazer, who represented the Department of Justice at the hearing and who said that no better evidence of patriotism and love of country could be shown than in the purchase of bonds and stamps. In all thirty-seven cases were laid over, many of them being for insufficiency of witnesses. Favorable action was taken on thirty applications.

License Applications

Many applications for inn and tavern licenses in Camden county were filed yesterday and Judge Kates fixed Friday as the date to pass on the petitions. The applications filed are as follows: John W. Chamberlain, W. S. R. Buckingham, C. R. Cleaver, Centre township; John A. White, John Pfommer, Berlin township; Charles F. Rouh, E. B. Davis, Frederick Ribaut, Clementon township; Margaret L. Wentz, Gloucester township; Benjamin Forrest, Conrad D. Ritzer, Pensauken township; George S. Kelly, Voorhees township; Charles Camarato, Harry Schusler, Antonio Sarnese, Anna S. Beam, Antonio Munzo, Winslow township; Fritz Frederick, Magnolia

Object to Sewer Assessments

When Circuit Court Judge Lloyd was asked in Camden yesterday to approve assessments made by commissioners for sewer construction in the Twelfth ward, counsel for abutting property owners interposed an objection and intimated that alterations in the original contract had boosted the cost from $1.10 to $1.50 per lineal foot. This was warmly resented by City Councilman Reakly, who declared that the contractor who did the work actually lost considerable money. The findings of the commissioners were approved.

Veteran Court Clerk Honored

Immediately after the April term of the Camden county court's opened yesterday Circuit Court Judge Lloyd, who presided with Common Pleas Judge Kates in the absence of Supreme Court Justice Garrison, called attention to the fact that Court Crier Charles Mac-Cready had been associated with the administration of justice in the county for an even half century. At the suggestion of Judge Lloyd a minute was adopted setting forth the appreciation of "the faithful, continuous and efficient service he has rendered in a full half century of devotion to public duty." The court attaches presented Mr. Mac-Cready with a bouquet of flowers.

The court designated Charles H. Laird, Jr., a banker, of Merchantville, as foreman of the new grand jury, which body at its initial session adopted a suggestion of Prosecutor Wolverton to change its time of sitting from morning to afternoon. The change becomes effective today.

The court appointed W. J. Kraft, Lewis A. Starr and C. V. D. Joline as a committee to prepare a minute on the life of the late Judge John G. Horner.

Personal Damage Suit

On behalf of 5-year-old Howard Aaronson suit for $10,000 damages was brought yesterday at Camden against George Rich by former Prosecutor Kraft. On March 2 the boy was struck by Rich's motor car at Broadway and Sycamore street and his right hip was broken. The youngster is still in the hospital and it is feared that he will be a permanent cripple.

Less Paving to Be Laid

Because of the high cost of materials little or no paving will be done in Camden this summer. Street paving supplies have advanced from 60 to 200 per cent. and Street Commissioner Sayres said yesterday that the only work to be done this year aside from needed patching will be at the instance of the government in connection with the housing operation for shipbuilders.

Draft Evader Arrested

Arrested at the Pennsylvania Terminal in Camden early yesterday morning by Policeman Steelman, Daniel Young, colored, aged 25 years, admitted that he is a draft evader. His home is in Essex county, Virginia. Young said he had never registered and that he had been traveling about the country to evade the selective service laws. He was turned over to the Department of Justice.

HERE AND THERE IN CAMDEN

S. B. English, superintendent of the New Jersey Tuberculosis Hospital, last night addressed the City Medical Society on the work of that institution. Addresses on phases of the treatment were made by Dr. W. W. Kain and Dr. H. L. Goldstein.

As a result of his hand being caught in a machine at the plant of the New York Shipyard, Anthony Tuble, aged 45 years, of 347 Lemon street, had the end of a finger amputated at Cooper Hospital.

Falling at Ninth and Market streets when seized with vertigo, Thomas L. Scudder, aged 76 years, of 822 Pearl street, sustained a severe laceration of the scalp. He was taken to Cooper Hospital.

Her skull fractured when she was struck by a trolley car near her home on Sunday, Mrs. Bertha Wunsch, aged 68 years, of 915 South Sixth street, died yesterday in the Homeopathic Hospital.

Thrown from an automobile when the machine hit a telegraph pole, Ross Flacus, of Atlantic City, was treated at Cooper Hospital for scalp lacerations.

Breaking her arm in a fall from a step at her home, Marie Yovabin, aged 7 years, of Chew's Landing, was a patient at Cooper Hospital.