

OVER IN CAMDEN.

* Ex-County Detective Patrick Gallagher has been appointed captain of the watch at the Philadelphia Mint.

* On a charge of stealing $37 from Norman Simmons, with whom he boarded, Henry Hill was held for trial by Justice Cassidy.

* The suit of William J. Thompson against Frank Fath, involving the ownership of property on the Gloucester beach occupied Judge Miller's attention in the Circuit Court yesterday.

* After searching for a week the police captured Coraques Diaigro, who is charged with setting fire to a property from which he was ejected. Mayor Westcott committed him for trial yesterday.

* Failing to pay fines amounting to $100 for selling liquor illegally, William Banks, a saloon-keeper, of Beach and Erie streets, was committed to the county jail yesterday by Mayor Westcott.

* Constable James Hunt, a Republican, has been appointed a Fish Warden for Camden county by the new non-partisan State Fish Commission. The other warden, William Guttridge, is a Democrat.

* While returning from a funeral Police-man Hicks saw a crowd of twenty young men "shooting crap" at Mt. Ephraim avenue and Lemon street. He hopped out of a carriage, scooped in the stakes and captured 17-year-old Walter Gibbs.

* On complaint of Secretary Smith, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to marry her.

Children Saloon-keeper, Frank Souder, of Broadway and Chestnut street, was convicted before Recorder Braker yesterday of cruel treatment of two young brothers, aged 13 and 15 years respectively. Sentence was suspended.

* In the Criminal Court yesterday Thomas Brown, alias Abraham Briscoe, was convicted of voting illegally in the First precinct, Seventh ward, at the election last fall. Charles Aggleton was acquitted of breaking into Biddle Higgins' store, at Gloucester City, and John Carter was acquitted of assault and battery on Wesley Charles.

* Before City Recorder Braker yesterday Frank C. Grapevine was ordered to pay $1.50 a week toward the support of Gretchen Dooner's illegitimate child. Grapevine was recently released from jail by a decision that Miss Dooner could not hold him for breach of promise, as he was a minor when he made the alleged contract to