

CAMDEN NEWS NOTES

 Gabriel Puorosso, the Italian captured in Camden last Monday by Policeman Troncone, was taken to Providence, R. I., yesterday by Inspector Hearn to answer a charge of murder. His victim was a fellow-countryman whom he is said to have stabbed five times.

 Because, as she said, William Kauffman owed her some money, Mrs. Cecelia Plavinsky is alleged to have entered his home and taken a suit of clothes. Kauffman objected and the woman's husband Joseph Plavinsky, gave the man a thrashing. Husband and wife were held in bail for court by Justice Schentz.

 The Active Quilt Club of Glendora, N. J., was incorporated yesterday with William Fine, James Campbell, Michael J. Maloney, George Beht and Louis McCauley, all of Camden, as trustees.

 After remaining unconscious since last Thursday, when he fell from a scaffold at the Colored High School Building, Hugh McManus, the Philadelphia carpenter, regained his senses at The Cooper Hospital yesterday. Hopes are entertained of his recovery.

 In a wrestling bout last night Joseph Gibbs, 35 years old, of 625 Liberty street, dislocated a knee. He was taken to the Cooper Hospital.
